New Court Established For 'Ecological Criminals' LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) people—to make them aware of filing suits against individuals,

Louisville residents who are careless about pollution are finding themselves faced with changes in a new kind of court established to prosecute what a judge calls "ecological crimi-

Judge Glenn McDonald of the Jefferson Quarterly Court Criminal Division has set aside every Friday afternoon for cases on pollution and ecology.

He described the sessions as "a court of public awareness," adding, "This court is for the

the laws and to make the legislature aware of the need to enact new laws.'

Lately, however, ordinary citizens have gotten into the act, groups or companies they think are polluters.

To bring suit against a polluter, a citizen must obtain a summons at the County Clerk's office, name the violator, the alleged violation, and provide his own name. Within four to six weeks, plaintiff and defendant are summoned to court, fines have averaged from $10 to several hundred dollars in the nonjury cases.

There are few laws under which laymen can prosecute

McDonald said. The strongest. he said, is the highway littering statute, which prohibits roadside dumping of trash. Last Fridy defendants included a man taken to court by his neighbors for dumping garbage in the street instead of paying a $3 dumping fine in his subdivision. The man was found guilty and fined $300 for lit-

Bloodiest Antigovernment Demonstration Staged

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — Gunfire rattled in the streets of South Vietnam's second largest city Sunday and armored cars rumbled in to quell the bloodiest antigovernment demonstration on election day.

Hundreds of monks in saffron robes, high school students, disabled veterans, Vietnamese Boy Scouts and teen-age girls in ao dais clashed repeatedly with police and army troops in savage street fighting.

By day's end, local hospitals reported treating at least 57 wounded, 31 of them by gunshot and 26 by shrapnel from hand grenades. All but nine were civilians

Monks at the Tinh Hoi Pagoda claimed two persons were killed, a 17-year-old student demonstrator and 42-year-old man they described as an onlooker. They said they were hiding the bodies to prevent authorities from taking them away and later disclaiming any knowledge of fatalities.

The disturbances erupted early in the morning as columns of demonstrators led by monks tried to block roads leading to nine polling places in downtown Da Nang. They were met by barbed wire barricades and combat police with M16 rifles.

When the monks removed some of the barricades, the police began firing tear gas canisters. The demonstrators retaliated with rocks and Molotov cocktails, scraming "down with the election."

At mid-morning, armored cars and personnel carriers appeared in the city, and police began firing their rifles over the heads of demonstrators.

As the fighting intensified, they shot lower and lower.

Youths in black uniforms, wearing arm bands of the militant Quoc Dan Dang (Vietnam Nationalist party) erected flags with a white star in a blue circle at several intersections, scampering away as the police bombarded them with tear gas.

By siesta time, some of the demonstrators had dispersed, but several hundred continued to hurl rocks at police and troopcarrying armored cars near the Da Nang market.

At midafternoon a platoon of Rangers arrived. The elite combat troops set up 30-calibre machine guns on a few street corners around the pagoda, which appeared to be the organizing center for the demonstrations.

Some youths distributed leaf lets in the streets urging Da Nang residents: "Don't follow the American pirates and don't vote for their lackey. The wind will blow the Americans to the east, but Thieu will remain. Keep him bent over, crying. Da Nang will not submit.'

Street fighting petered out as light faded.

Thieu has specified 50 per cent of the vote as necessary for his "vote of confidence," and said he would resign if he does

But when casting his ballot at Saigon's city hall, Thieu told newsmen that even if he gets the 50 per cent, "it does not mean I will immediately accept another term. I will consider all the factors.

He also declared the enemy had failed in its efforts to disrupt the voting.

In the hours just before the polls opened, enemy forces launched rocket and mortar attacks on at least 12 cities, towns and military installations, killing 17 Vietnamese and wounding 33, according to South Vietnamese officials.

At least one American also was killed in the shellings, which the Viet Cong apparently intended as a traditional reminder of their presence. The election climaxed a tumultous three months of bitter political maneuvering and, in recent weeks, recurring violence stemming chiefly from reaction to Thieu's decision to day-long clashes in the nation's run alone.

Thieu's name became the only one on the ballot after his two rivals, retired Gen. Duong Van "Big" Minh and Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, dropped out of the race claiming that the election was rigged.

The situation has proved a major embarrassment to the United States, which had made a democratic eletion with multiple candidates a cornerstone of its Vietnam policy

Party Leaders Hope To Win Veto Of Nixon's Pay Hikes Postponement

WASHINGTON (AP) — In postponement. Usually, attendance in Congress is down Mondays because many members take long weekends

In a last-minute appeal Saturday, Nixon conceded Congress is under "political pressure" to veto the 6-month delay-from Jan. 1 to July 1—of the pay raises for more than four million federal workers, including the military

The President, in a statement issued from the Florida White House, said that if Congress were to "cave under that pressure, the inflationary consequences ... would be rapid, extensive and severe.'

The President has issued an executive order putting off the payraises for 1.4 million civilian and 2.9 million military personnel as part of his new economic policy to halt inflation and cut unemployment.

The 6-month delay is intended to save $1.3 billion to help balance the revenue loss resulting from proposed tax cuts de-

Passage of a resolution in either the House or the Senate to veto the postponement of the scheduled Jan. 1 raise would override the President. The fight has centered in the House but if it should refuse to block the postponement the Senate probably will vote on the issue. On Sunday, the National Federation of Federal employes urged Congress to override the sively orchestrated demand, backed by a self-serving U.S. Chamber of Commerce lobby and public relations campaign on a huge scale, to make sacrificial scapegoats of government workers, their families and the communities in which they live, by a punitively long freeze on their wages and salaries."

Trouble Foreseen In U.S. Chinas Policy

(AP) — Delegates of many nationalities and convictions were agreed Sunday that the United States faces hard going with its proposal to keep Nationalist China in the United Nations while inviting Communist China to come in.

A few predicted outright that the Communist People's Republic of China would be in and the Nationalist Republic of China out before the end of the General Assembly's threemonth 26th annual session, due Dec. 21.

But most of those speculating on the subject were saying that it was a tossup whether the United States would win, and that two or three votes one way or the other would decide the That was the situation as Secretary of State William P. Rogers prepared to go before the assembly with a general statement of U.S. policy, including a defense of the two-China scheme he announced in Washington on Aug. 2.

His announcement was that in the assembly the United States would "support action ... for seating the People's Republic of China" in the United Nations but "oppose any action to expel the Republic of China. Rogers said that was "fully in accord with President Nixon's desire to normalize relations with the People's Republic of China"-dramatized by Nixon's July 15 announcement that he was going to Peking some time before next May.

The secretary of state will speak in the 130-nation assembly's general debate at 10:30 a.m. EDT Monday.

With the cosponsorship of 16 other countries, the United States is pushing a resolution to leave Nationalist China seated in the assembly and seat Communist China both in the assembly and on the Security

But its main hope of saving the Nationalists' assembly seat lies in another resolution, cosponsored with 19 other countries, that would designate the ouster of Nationalist China an 'important question,' requiring a two-thirds vote for a decision.

That proposal is directed against the so-called "Albanian resolution," sponsored by 21 countries, to oust the Nationalist while giving everything to the Communists

The China debate starts around Oct. 18 and the voting is expected around Oct. 27. The guessing is on whether the United States can get the simple majority necessary to adopt the "important question" proposal and pull the teeth of the Albanian resolution. It goes

In April the Soyuz 10 mission was cut short after a brief linkup with an orbiting platform, apparently because a crewman became ill.

Two previous missions in the luna series-Luna 16 and Luna 17-made soft landings on the moon last year. Luna 16 became the first unmanned craft to land on the moon and return to earth. It brought back 3.5 ounces of fine-grain lunar samples.

Luna 17 put the Lunokhod I moon rover on the sea of rains, and the eight-wheeled vehicle has since carried out numerous reconnaissance missions.

Tass said 26 radio communications sessions were conducted during Luna 19's flight and all systems were operating normally. Two corrections were made in the vehicle's trajectory "to insure its entry into a certain sphere of the near-moon space," Tass said.

Luna 19 was swung into a round orbit 87 miles from the moon's surface. It was reported orbiting the moon about every 2

Army Reviews Herbert's File

WASHINGTON (AP) -Prodded by Congress, Secretary of the Army Robert F. Froehlke is reviewing personally Lt. Col Anthony B. Herbert's file to determine whether the much-decorated officer now facing forced retirement was unjustly relieved of his command. Herbert claims his once-promising career was turned into a shambles after he accused two superior officers of covering up civilian atrocities in Vietnam. The Army's most-decorated Froehlke's review is based on information brought to his attention only last month.

The sources say this information involves documents filed by Col. Fred E. Hansard, Third Army adjutant general at Ft. McPherson, recommending that a damaging efficiency report against Herbert "be expunged from the record" and that the case be resolved in Herbert's favor. Although Hansard's recommendation was made a year ago it was never acted on, the sources

Whittermore, 20, currently of 417 Pennsylvania ave. east was traveling west on Pennsylvania ave. west. The operator told police she was traveling too fast for the curve at the intersection with East st. and lost control of her vehicle which struck a parked car in the custody of Cheryl Lee Kays, 19, of 11 West st., Warren, inflicting $895 in damage. Whittermore will be charged with reckless driving.

Man Faces Morals Charge

A Warren man was arrested at 2:20 a.m. Sunday and charged with sodomy and corrupting the morals of a minor. Warren police, while checking out the Market Street School parking lot, saw suspicious movements through a rear door of the building and discovered William L. Reese, 26, of 115 West Fifth st. commiting the act. Reese was taken before justice of the peace Raymond Gilmore and committed to Warren County Jail in lieu of bail.

State police at the Warren substation investigated a twocar accident at 9:30 a.m. Sunday on U.S. 6. According to the report, a car

Gov. Milton Shapp says he plans to activate the State Compensation Commission within the next two weeks and hopes it will approve salary increases ranging from $10,000 to $15,000 yearly for cabinet level state employes.

Shapp made the statement in a wide ranging exclusive interview with a Philadelphia Bulletin reporter.

"I'd like to have the cabinet paid as much as they are in New Jersey — an average of $38,000 and over $40,000 in some cases," Shapp said.

The Pennsylvania pay scale for Cabinet members is $25,000 except for the secretary of education, who is paid $30,000.

Calls For Rural Development

Congressman Albert W Johnson (R-Pa.), Sunday called for national development of rural areas having high proportions of persons with low incomes, and those areas which are experiencing a substantial loss of population. Under Johnson's plan, tax incentives would be provided to establish new or expanded job producing and job training industrial and

2,500th Anniversary Celebration Of Persian Empire Scheduled

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—All roads in Iran seem to lead to this fast-growing capital city, which will share the limelight this month with Persepolis during the 2,500th anniversary celebration of the Persian Empire.

A 40-mile highway has been built between Tehran and the ancient desert capital of Persepolis, where a sumptuous tent city is rising near the colonnaded ruins of the palatial home of Cyrus the Great.

Until a few months ago, Persepolis was visited only by hardy tourists and some of Iran's three million nomadic herdsmen who graze their sheep and goats before moving on. A five-year drought has even limited their movement.

What may be the biggest gathering of heads of state in history will shift from Persepolis to Tehran for the second two days of anniversary festivities and the dedication of a $10-million museum.

Iran's modern road network brings nearly every village in the country — which is about the size of Alaska — within one or two days' reach of Tehran. Although two-thirds of Iran is still rural, a rapid modernization has been taking place over the last 20 years so that the country can continue to live up to its geographical importance as a bridge between Asia and European-Mediterranean

WASHINGTON — A blond, blue-eyed, white Christian has been howling that the State Department has discriminated against him.

The charge of reverse racial-religious discrimination has been raised by Willie Heiko Heeres, a Dutch-born American citizen, who applied to teach Indonesian at the Foreign Service Institute. He claims, indignantly, that he was turned down because of his looks and his religion.

The case has caused teeth-gnashing at the State Department, which has enough trouble preventing discrimination against blacks and has just lost a discrimination suit filed by a determined woman diplomat. Now the harassed hierarchy at Foggy Bottom appear to be in danger of losing another suit to the blond Dutch-

For the department's confidential "Investigation File" on the Heeres case tends to back him up. The file states that Heeres lived for almost 20 years in Indonesia and had extensive language

Yet he was rejected as an Indonesian instructor although, as an American citizen, he should have had priority over Indonesian aliens on the Institute faculty. The Foreign Service Act declares unequivocally that aliens are eligible for such jobs only "in the absence of suitably qualified U.S. citizens.' Heeres charged that he was turned down because of his white face and because he was not a Moslem.

TAPED EVIDENCE

So flustered was the striped-pants establishment that they tape-recorded with his acquiesence—his job interview with Dr. Warren Yates, the East Asian languages chairman. The dialogue, which we have condensed from a bootleg copy of the transcript, seems to support Heeres:

Dr. Yates: "We are looking for people who speak the language like an educated native speaker . . . who has a culture and religion of that country. Uusually a religion . . . as you know and I know, most of the Indonesians are Moslems . . . so . .

Heeres: "The knowledge (of the language) is more important than the religion you live by

Still, the Institute refused to hire an Indonesian instructor with blond hair and blue eves

Footnote: Institute Director Howard Shollenberger declined comment on the case, pointing out that Heeres is still appealing. THE PENNSYLVANIA STORY Glory By Association By Mason Denison

HARRISBURG — Back in antiquity it was not unusual for a King to cause the execution of the bearer of bad news even though the poor, unfortunate wretch happened to be simply a messenger-boy. This might be called guilt by association. But should the circumstances be the reverse and the messenger-boy delivers good news then the opposite of the theory should apply and the bearer of good tidings could bask the reflected glory.

This is done every day in Washington, D.C., what with the White House and other Federal Agencies annointing selected Congressmen (from both sides of the political aisle, by the way) to convey the good news to the folks back home about such things as announcements of federal grants or construction projects of the pork barrel variety

And this is the way it has been done in Harrisburg in recent years what with the Governor's Office or various State Departments and Bureaus giving selected state legislators (again regardless of their political party) first crack at announcing the good news of a highway project or state grant if this was something that would apply to that particular legislator's home

More often than not — the announcing lawmaker knows little about the details of the project he or she is breaking the news

The important thing (to them) is that the announcing lawmaker hopefully will be associated with the good news in the minds of the folks back home — an important consideration when re-election time rolls

But now with a new Administration on Pennsylvania's Capitol Hill there has been a new wrinkle applied to this game by Shapp Administration Democrats who have taken over the State helm after eight years of steering by Republicans. According to GOP State Chairman Cliff Jones, the Governor's Office has issued a recent "secret" order that all state checks on grants be handled through the Governor's press office rather than through their normal department chan-being presented by Democrat legislators only "and more despicable by Democratic Chairman" who, according to the GOP Chieftain, are not authorized to award the checks in the first place.

This way, says Mr. Jones, checks are praise front

Mr. Jones documented his charge with a recent example in Danville where the Democrat Chairman Paul Becker presented a check for $83,421 to Robert Moore, chairman of the Danville Municipal Authority

The check was forwarded to Mr. Becker for presentation by the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources.

The implication that state grants provided by taxpayers' dollars can only be secured by going through Democrat County Chairmen is an onerous one to any citizen of the state," opines Mr. Jones. 'For a Governor who pretends to be 'nonpolitical' this is another tangible evidence of his very political administration.

The GOP state spokesman then proceeds to explain how it was in the good old days when it was common practice for state grants to be presented by Department officials and-or legislators regardless of their political affiliation and that all elected officials were invited to presentation ceremonies

But coloring this entire system of bearing governmental good news is a basic question of why is it necessary for these 'good' tidings to be born by lawmakers who frequently know little about the project involved?

This in itself is ridiculous enough inasmuch as lawmakers themselves at best are only secondarily involved — if that. They may have voted for or against the general all-encompassing law providing for the local grant in question but as for specifics, in nine cases out of ten they have no connection whatsoever and usually are surprised to be informed that such an action has been taken in their

WASHINGTON — After the British accused the Russians the other day of supporting 105 spies in their embassy in London, a telephone call was made to one of the Russian spies in the embassy here in Washington. His name is Boris. He said, yes, he could get out for a rendezvous, provided it produced a secret document which he could send to Moscow to justify his expense account.

The U.S. Government is very helpful about things like this. "Here," said a deputy to a deputy assistant at the Pentagon, and he cut a short news story out of the afternoon paper — it was about an automobile striking a cow near Frederick, Md. — and stamped it "Very Secret."

Boris, rendezvousing under a bench in Lafayette Park, which had been bugged by the F.B.I., accepted the newspaper clipping without enthusiasm.

"Can't you at least get the C.I.A. to give you some fake blueprints to give me?" he asked. "You don't even take me seriously enough to want to mislead me anymore. 'Nonsense, Boris. The U.S. Government regards you as one of the most key Russian spies operating in Washington this fall." 'You Americans!'' Boris said. "Never willing to level with a guy. It seemed an obvious truth not worth denying. It was time for a change of subject. "Boris, is it really true that your side had a hundred and five spies in the Boris hesitated before answering, and pointed to the bug which was attached to the park bench. "Is this the F.B.I.'s bug,"

The demand for secret papers among seal of the United States imprinted on the wire. "Good," he said, clearing his throat. "A hundred and five," he said. "You think that's a lot? You think a hundred and five spies is enough to do the job we're up against in these Western countries?" 'Don't you know even what's happening in your own country?" he went on, speaking with great emotion. "The volume of secret papers has increased by a factor of fifty or sixty in the past ten years. The more secret papers you have, the more spies we need to get hold of them.

The difficulty, Boris explained, speaking very clearly and distinctly into the bug, so that the F.B.I. would hear every word, was that it had become a symbol of status in Washington for men to have secret papers in their possession.

He thought this had started with Prof. Henry Kissinger, Boris said. He had read somewhere, perhaps in a top-secret story printed in a newspaper column of Washington society news, that Professor Kissinger never attended a party without bringing along a briefcase ostentatiously filled with highly classified papers.

Naturally, he explained, high ranking officials at the Pentagon and State Department didn't want to risk being put in the shade by showing up at a party without secret papers when they knew that Professor Kissinger might drop in with an armful.

Boris said that he had, in fact, attended a party in one of the seedier salons of Georgetown, at which a public-relations officer from the Department of Commerce tried to win a blonde away from a clerk in the Bureau of Obsolete Deeds by flashing a fat roll of papers labeled "extremely

The clerk had promptly crushed this gambit by producing out of his jacket sleeve a roll of papers stamped "excessively secret.'

Government officials, Boris said, had become so intense that status-hungry officials were plastering the classification stamp on every paper that came to hand. Among purloined U.S. secret documents which had turned up lately on his own desk, Boris went on, were a luncheon check for two cheeseburgers and beer, a

Texas Versus Chile

By William V. Shannon

WASHINGTON - This country seems headed down the wrong road in its relations with Chile and other underdeveloped countries.

The Socialist-Communist coalition Government in Chile is determined to nationalize the American-owned copper industry and pay little or nothing for it. This is a misfortune for American investors and, indirectly, for the Chilean people, but there is nothing the United States Government can do to compel the payment of adequate compensation.

What our Government can do- and is in danger of doing — is to use this episode as an occasion to shake its fist in Chile's face and issue stern pronouncements. These gestures are intended to deter other countries in Latin America and Africa from expropriating American investments and to impress American voters that the Nixon Administration is "tough.

The principal proponent of this policy is Secretary of the Treasury Connally, but it has considerable support throughout the Administration. Only the State Department, mindful of the sensibilities of foreigners since it deals with them all the time, has serious doubts.

A hard-as-nails approach to diplomatic bargaining can work with sophisticated governments like Russia and China. Each side is capable of making cool, longheaded calculations of its national interests.

But in underdeveloped countries. governments are often weak and unstable People may be obsessed with a sense of inferiority or chronic grievance such as resentment at "Yankee imperialism." Decisions may be in the hands of a demagogue or, alternatively, of a sensible man who is, however, worried about how a demagogue and his popular following may react. In some countries, power may lie with politically inexperienced army officers who have no clear understanding of capital investment, the balance of trade and other important but dull subjects.

In short, the United States is not negotiating in these countries with shrewd old customers like Chou En-lai or Gromyko. A tough approach may provoke a weak country to hysterical obstinacy rather than induce it to back down. Obsessed with prestige and national honor, countries can act directly counter to what would seem to be their rational economic interest. Does anyone suppose that Nasser or Sukarno or Nkrumah arrived at his decision by the same economic analysis as a Wall Street banker or a Texas lawver?

A tough policy runs the risk of setting up the United States as the obvious target of blame when the radical nationalizing policies fail to produce results.

Moreoever, our real interests in Latin America are political, not economic. E if the entire $12 billion in American investments were in jeopardy - and they are not — it would be worth buying them out if that would serve our political interests. That sum of money is, after all, only a small fraction of what we have spent trying to advance our political aims in Vietnam

Our political objective in Latin America is to have friends wherever possible. Where it is impossible, our objective should be to maintain correct diplomatic relations and avoid being maneuvered into the role of scapegoat for everybody's Control of the copper is a high-voltage political issue in Chile. If all the oil in Texas were owned by foreigners, Texans, including even Mr. Connolly, might feel the way Chileans do. In disinterested rational terms, the previous Christian Democratic Government in Chile did all that was necessary. It "Chileanized" the copper industry by acquiring 51 per cent control but left management and a minority interest with the private com-

By expropriating American in vestments, the present Government of Chile is actually harming the interests of its own people because it is scaring off foreign investors not only in copper but in all other fields. Only capital investment can make an economy grow. If Chile does not get the investment money from foreigners, it will have to sweat it out of its own people. Expropriation is likely to lead to a fall in Chile's standard of living. But that is not America's responsibility. Countries, like people, have to be allowed to make their own mistakes.

Instead of worrying about private American investments in the hemisphere. our Government ought to be concerned about the cause of human freedom. If Chile becomes a totalitarian dictatorship, that would be the real tragedy. We cannot prevent it, but if it occurs, we should be able to make clear to the Chilean people that it is the loss of their freedom and not the loss of our money that concerns us. Similarly, American-backed regimes in Guatemala and the Dominican Republic engage in murderous repression of political opponents. This gangsterism compromises our good name but Washington is silent. These are the hemispheric issues which should concern a President and a people who believe in laundry list for five shirts and a 1964 copy of Playboy

"The more paper you stamp secret," Boris shouted into the bug, "the more spies we need to get our hands on it, study it, puzzle out its significance and forward it on to Moscow.

Having made his point to the F.B.I., he hurried off to a cocktail party where he expected a minor official from the Washington Monument staff to appear with a sheaf of menus, classified "unusually secret," from the National Art Gallery cafeteria

"The Russians are begging for mercy," the F.B.I. man observed later. "Maybe just maybe, mind you - if we keep stamping, we can use their spy payroll to bankrupt them."

All this, incidentally, is "utterly secret."

By Jack Mc Wethy Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON military draft is back, and written into the new law are changes which will touch lives in every village, town and city in the country

The new provisions affect who will be drafted, how he will be selected, who will sit on his draft board and what his rights are when dealing with that local board

The provisions will become law in late October.

Although much of the draft debate and nearly all the White House lobbying was aimed at issues peripheral to the draft — Indochina troop withdrawal and NATO troop cuts — less publicized amendments were generally the ones that slipped into the bill

New Rights of Appeal

One feature, which can be credited to the persistent lobbying of Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts, has expanded a young man's rights when tangling with his local draft

A registrant will have the right to appear in person before both the local and appeal boards and a quorum of the members must be present. He can also present witnesses in his behalf.

Kennedy's original package included a provision allowing the registrant legal counsel while appearing before the local board. The provision was cut from the Senate's bill in the House-Senate conference session

If the registrant requests it, the draft board must provide him with a written statement on why it ruled against his claim for a particular status.

Draft Board Members Both the Senate and House Armed Services Committees initiated provisions designed to change the complexion of local draft boards - make them younger and more reflective of the community

One part of the new law states that future appointments to local boards by the President are to reflect the racial and religious complexion of the community the board serves.

As passed by Congress. however, the provision contains no compliance date and no penalties for failure to balance the boards' membership.

Both committees also favored making the membership of the local boards slightly younger. Retirement age was dropped from 70 to 65 and the minimum age was lowered from 25 to 19.

Draft Evasion Loophole plugging was of special interest to Sen. John C. Stennis of Mississippi and Rep. F. Edward Hebert of Louisiana. chairmen of the Senate and House Armed Services Com-

Both men resisted attempts on the floor to continue college student deferments and to broaden any of the existing ways to avoid the draft.

For some specialized groups of draft dodgers, the road of continued evasion will become by the opposition. tougher because of the efforts of Stennis, Hebert and their committees. Ordained or Inducted

Although Congress continued to defer divinity students, despite Hebert's attempt to wipe out the deferment, a new section of the law added by the Senate has tightened the loopholes used by draft-evading seminarians.

No longer car a divinity student wait out the draft until he reaches age 26, then, free from his military obligation, pursue a field of interest other than the church.

The new law provides that once he enters divinity school, a person remains eligible for induction until he reaches his 35th birthday. After graduation, he must be ordained or he becomes eligible for induction.

Twelve-year Wait The young man who did not register for the draft after his 18th birthday used to be able to avoid prosecution if he stayed out of sight for six years or until his 24th birthday. That is the statute of limitations.

The six-vear limit on vulnerability, argued both Stennis and Hebert, was allowing too many potential draftees to slip out of their military obligation. The Senate and House were convinced and they voted for a stiffer version of the old law.

Congress stretched the period of vulnerability for prosecution to age 31 or for 12 years.

New Loophole One change, which came as a floor amendment in both chambers, was adamantly opposed by both Stennis and The amendment broadened the definition of the "sole surviving son" — an emotional issue - and the two powerful chairmen were buried

WEED KILLER SOUGHT

Thistles, golden rod and other noxious weeds are running rampant along the U.S. 6 bypass right-of-way at Youngsville. Residents believe the PennDOT should control weeds along the highway right-of-way and this photo shows how they are climbing the highway r-o-w fence. Some

The Trouble With Harry

WASHINGTON-I received a Rocco's boys or Frank's looking for a minor schnook. If call from a guy last week who claimed he was president of the Harry Anti-Defamation League. He said, "You wrote an article last week in which you used the name Harry to make fun of a TV football situation. For years now radio, television and newspaper writers have been holding up the name Harry to ridicule and derision, and we Harrys have banned together to do something about it.

"Now wait a minute, sir," protested. "I do not always use Harry when I need a fall guy. Sometimes I use George, other times Arnie and quite often I use Henry

'That's what I mean," Harry said. "Why don't you ever make fun of the Steves or Jims or Jacks or Bills.

There is nothing funny about a Steve, a Jim, a Jack or a Bill' I answered frankly. "The image just isn't right. If I call my guy Chuck or Jack, my reader is going to expect him to punch someone in the nose. But if I call him Harry or Fred or Louie, the reader is going to expect him to be punched in the nose. It's as simple as that.

But why should this be? We Harrys and Mortons and Arnies and Chesters have a right to live

"I didn't make the rules," I protested. "A long time ago there must have been a Harry who slipped on a banana peel. From then on, any time a writer needed a name for someone who was going to get all fouled up, he used Harry.

"Well, we Harrys don't like it," Harry said. "It's bad enough that people are always making fun of Harry, but it's even worse when they make him the guy who commits the crime on a TV show.

"I don't know why you take offense at that," I said. "Everyone knows that if a Harry doesn't have two left feet. he probably has criminal in-

'People just don't think of Harry as a leader," I said. Writers know this. If they have to come up with a name for a gang leader they would rather go with Red or Dusty or even Phil. You just can't see a Harry being the brains behind a bank job. As a matter of fact, it's more likely that he's the guy to make the fatal error so everyone gets caught. 'You see? All your prejudices about Harrys are coming through. Those of us who are not public jokes are stool pigeons. "Not necessarily," I said. "Max is more liable to rat on the gang than Harry.

"We aren't taking it any more," Harry said. "From now on every time we see a Harry presented in a bad light on television, we're going to call the sponsor and tell him that everyone in this country named Harry is going to boycott his product. And we also intend to cancel our subscriptions to any newspaper that holds up a Harry to derision.

MRS. RUTSKY PREFERS TREADLE MACHINE

By JO BETZ

Most girls, at one time in their business lives, have had a Raggedy Ann doll, to love, to talk to during the lonely times, to cry with during the sad times, and to hug during the happy times.

Mrs. Karen Rutsky, a young mother of two who lives outside of Sugar Grove, has made hundreds of girls -- young and old -- happy during the past four years with the Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy dolls she makes by hand, and with the aid of a very old treadle Singer sewing machine Helped by her mother, Mrs. Helen Clark, who lives next to her, Mrs. Rutsky hand picks the material to go into the dolls. She and her mother cut, stuff, and sew the dolls with loving care. and put a little of themselves into each one.

"I don't really know how I got make a pair for them, and what

The purchased pattern turned out to be more difficult than necessary, Mrs. Rutsky said, so she changed it to make it easier.

The dolls are made of various materials, with black felt used for the feet, eyes and nose; red and white striped percale used for the lower legs; and unbleached muslin used for the remainder of the body, arms,

The dress for Raggedy Ann and the shirt for Raggedy Andy are made of the same material, with matching rick-rack on the apron of Raggedy Ann. Mrs. Rutsky said if the dolls are ordered ahead, the buyer may choose the main color in the print of the dress and shirt.

The dolls are made in almost an assembly line fashion by the mother-daughter team. Mrs. Rutsky cuts out the pieces of the dolls, usually no less than eight arms and legs at a time. After the pieces are sewn together by them with shredded foam

Mrs. Clark then embroideries started as a hobby just grew the face on the dolls, and stitches by hand the felt nose and eyes. "We prefer using felt instead of buttons," Mrs. Clark said, "because there is no chance of a small child pulling off the button and perhaps choking on it.

After the face is embroidered on the front of the head piece, it is joined onto the back of the head by Mrs. Rutsky, then stuffed by Mrs. Clark. All the pieces are then assembled by Mrs. Rutsky. While the daughter is making the clothing for the dolls, Mrs. Clark sews the rug yarn hair or the heads, using embroidery yarn to secure it.

The dolls' clothing is made with snaps and buttons so it may be taken off and washed. "I try to make the dresses and suits just like I would make a dress for my daughter," Mrs. Rutsky said, "so they can be washed and will last as long as the doll does.

Mrs. Rutsky said she has made the dolls for children of all ages -- from newborn infants to college students to grandmothers.

"I sold a doll to a lady once," she said, "who told me she had always wanted a Raggedy Ann, and never had one as a child, so she was getting one now.'

Many girls buy the dolls to take to college with them, but the bulk of her orders are for little girls and boys

In addition to making the dolls, Mrs. Rutsky leads the busy life of a homemaker. She is the mother of two small children, Theresa, almost five, and Bobby, almost two. She has a large garden, from which she cans and freezes fruits and vegetables.

'I have about ten bushels of peaches waiting on the trees now that have to be canned," she said, "so the dolls are just going to have to wait for awhile.

In her spare time, Mrs. Rutsky helps her grandmother mow and groom a nearby the winter months when, she said, "I figure I would be wasting time watching TV anyway. I figure that time as free time.

Mrs. Rutsky said if she ever kept track of the time it takes to make a pair of dolls, and figured her time at even minimum wage, she probably wouldn't make any money on have been so successful?

She charges $10 per pair for fashioned things," Mrs. Rutsky

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Two years ago we took Ellen to the orthodontist to have her teeth straightened. It was an expensive job but we were willing to put out the money. Ellen wanted a pretty smile more than anything in the world

For the last year we have heard nothing but gripes. Ellen hates her braces. They are ruining her social life. They cut her mouth, they hurt. Last week my husband told Ellen that if the braces were making her that unhappy she didn't have to wear them any more. The next day she had them removed. The orthodontist was very displeased.

I believe my husband was wrong. He said it wasn't worth the aggravation -- that he wasn't going to put out that much money to listen to all that whining. His last words, were, "After all, it's her mouth." What do you say? - Hayward Hassle

DEAR HASS: I say it's too bad your husband let a 13year-old girl make a decision as important as THAT one. He should have insisted that Ellen stay with the braces until her teeth were straight. In a few years she'll be sorry. And then she II blame her father for letting her do such a stupid thing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: In May my husband's sister was married. His folks gave her a wedding that cost at least $3,000. They also gave her the second family car which she had been driving. When Dan and I married they gave us a modest gift and their heartiest congratulations.

My sister-in-law is now pregnant and my in-laws are sending them a nice check for "medical expenses." This really burns me up. Dan and I are having a hard time putting ourselves through school and his folks are not helping worth a darn. Is it fair that parents go all out for a daughter and do nothing for a son? I am very resentful and the resentment is turning to intense dislike Your opinion is wanted - Left Out

DEAR OUT: It is customary for the bride's parents to pay for the wedding. From the sound of your letter it appears that you thought they should pay for their son's wedding, too. Sorry, but your wedding was YOUR parent's responsibility.

About the gifts: I suspect the reason you aren't getting much is because you came across to them the way you came across to me. Avaricious and unpleasant.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When our son was nine years old he exhibited unusual musical talents so we bought him a beautiful piano. Our three older children were working at the time so naturally their board money went toward the payments.

The piano-playing boy is grown now and although he did not make music his career he still plays the piano and enjoys it. He will be married soon and the question has arisen as to what to do with the piano. He has not asked for it but we think we should offer it to him. The older children feel we should either keep it or sell it and share the proceeds with them. (They do not need the money.) The question is, does the boy who used the piano so well have a right to it? We want to be fair? — Toronto DEAR T.: Leave the piano where it is. It's part of your home and should remain so. When your son comes by to see you he can play your favorite numbers and bring back some delightful memories of his youth.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a young married women (under 30), no square and certainly not a prude. I'm writing about something that has been bugging me for a long time. I realize you can't do anything about it but I must get this off my chest.

What's with these slobs who think it's sexy and "with it" to go without a bra. I can't tell you how many times, while walking on the street with a casual friend, or my dad, or my husband, and I see, coming toward us, a cow-like female, her breasts flopping around. It is embarrassing and disgusting. A person doesn't know where to look or what to say

And this is only part of it. I work three days a week in a dress shop. You wouldn't believe the women who come in here to try on expensive dresses with no bras, and sometimes no underwear. I refuse to wait on these pigs and my boss has backed me up. Please publish this letter so it can be tacked up in every fitting room in the country. Then, instead of having to say something, the salesperson need only point to your column on the wall. Much obliged. — HOLLYWOOD.

DEAR MUCH: Here's the column and I hope it helps. But prepare yourself for a shock. Some of those sloppy broads new cleaning process can do for your furnishings it is necessary to understand the nature of soiling, and of soil removal.

Essentially, there are two types of soil; the loose gritty soil that is tracked in from the outside, and "atmospheric" soil that floats in the air, and comes from cooking, exhausts, chimneys and other related sources.

Because the latter is a soil that contains grease and oils, it clings tightly to the carpet fiber. It cannot be removed by normal vacuuming, so it remains to build up over a period of time and gradually will cause a "dull lifeless appearance." It also has a deteriorating effect on the dves and fibers, subtracting vears of life and beauty from your furnishings.

Machine scrubbing, either with the "do it yourself" equipment or heavier commercial machines merely loosens the soil and drives it deeper into the carpet pile, making it more difficult to

The surface may appear clean after these treatments. but the dirt and detergent are still there at the base of the carpet, and soon will "wick" back to the surface, making it appear that carpets resoil more rapidly after cleaning, when

What does actually make carpets resoil more rapidly after cleaning is the waxy and oily residue left by some shampoos. A simple test is to pour a small amount of such solution mixed to the manufacturer's recommendations in a saucer and allow it to stand overnight. If it dries to a crisp powder, it will not cause resoiling, but if it has a waxy-oily feeling, it will cause resoiling to your furnishings. The new process utilizes a revolutionary new principle. Specially formulated cleaning agents are mixed in water specifically for the type of fiber in the carpet that is to be cleaned, whether it be fine wool Orientals, or any of the variations of man-made fibers found in most carpets on the market today The mixture is converted into saturated steam, and under pressure is forced deep into the carpet pile where it literally explodes the soil from the surface of the fibers. This dirt-laden mixture is held in suspension and immediately picked up by a vacuum pump which deposits it into a waste tank-not at the base of your carpets. Cleaning is from the bottom up; not the

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN 971: By The Chicago Tribune) BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS Q. 1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠KQ 9 8 5 ♥ A 10 6 5 4 ♦ 2 ♣4 2 The bidding has proceeded East South Pass 1 🌲 Pass Pass 3 ♡ Pass 4 🚜 Pass

What do you bid now? A .- Five clubs. Inasmuch as you are forced to proceed to game, this is the logical step. A rebid of four hearts would be dangerous in that it might persuade partner that you have a better suit. From partner's failure to bid three no trump over three hearts, you may deduce that he has a long and powerful two

Q. 2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠ 8 6 3 ○ A 6 2 ♣ A K Q J 9 8 2 The bidding has proceeded: North East South West Pass 1 👫 Pass Pass 3 👫 Pass 1 \land

3 🛕 Pass What do you bid now? A.—Four diamonds. Prospects for a slam are excellent despite the fact that your partner orig inally passed and, as yet has shown no special signs of strength. If partner shows the ace of hearts now, you will have to sign off but, if he is able to bid five diamonds, you should contract for a slam in clubs.

Q. 3—East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠5 ♥AJ ♦10 8 6 2 ♣A 9 7 5 4 2 The bidding has proceeded East South West North Pass Pass 1 🖍 Dble.

What do you bid now? A.—Pass You have enough high card strength to redouble but, lacking any reasonable idea of where you are headed, it is more discreet to pass temporarily and await developments.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠J72 ♡KJ62 ○A932 ♣J10 The bidding has proceeded: East South West North Pass 1 7 Pass

What do you bid now? A.—One no trump. This hand ust makes the grade. A bid in this spot should be made only with the outlook of reaching for a game. This does not appear likely since your hearts appear to be badly placed for a spade contract but, since partner may have a hand that could help produce nine tricks at no trump, one forward move by you is justified.

Q. 5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

The bidding has proceeded: East South West Pass Pass Pass

What do you bid now? completely desirable call on this hand. Three hearts is somewhat of an underbid, but we dislike raising all the way to four with just two trumps. The alternative bid of four diamonds may land us in an unmakeable diamond game when four hearts could be spread.

Q. 6—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AJ 9 8 7 ♥ Q 9 ♦ K 8 ♣K 8 7 5 The bidding has proceeded: South West North East Pass 1 NT Pass Pass 3 🛦 Pass

What do you bid now? able to make a better initial response than one no trump, there can be no very good play for a game. Even if he has all of high card values in clubs and spades, which seems a likely explanation for his second round the holes in your hand.

Q. 7—As South, vulnerable. you hold:

♠AQ ♡K876 ◊654 ♣AK96 The bidding has proceeded: West North East South Pass 2 🦂 Pass

What do you bid now? A .- Two spades. This hand was microscopically short of an immediate jump shift response and as such merits very strong treatment. On hands of this strength the proper procedure is to bid suits twice and then raise partner. There is only a slight risk partner will take this as a legitimate suit, which impression will correct on the next round when you raise hearts.

Q. 8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠A 8 ♡AKQJ 7 2 ♦ 9 7 3 ♣K3 The bidding has proceeded: East South West North 1 ♥ 1 ♠ Pass Pass

What do you bid now? A .- Two no trump. Prospects for game have not been entirely dimmed by partner's pass but, the shorter, no trump route to game looks the best shot at this point since all partner needs are a couple of face cards strategically placed.

Your Horoscope

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, FOR MONDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1971.

ARIES (March 21 to April 20) — If you can get along with everybody and go along with present conditions, you have a whale of a disposition! But look closely: Not all situations should be condoned "for the sake of quiet." TAURUS (April 21 to May 21) — Maintaining your high principles, you can help others see the light and boost the morale of many. Study thoroughly, to completely comprehend some new trends. GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) — An excellent day for reviving interest in some old matters and for engaging in something new that takes courage plus know-how.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) — Avoid any urge to take foolish chances, yet do not be so hesitant as to lose a golden opportunity. Emphasize ambitiousness and foresight.

LEO (July 24 to August 23) — Tackle your duties and those "unexpected" obligations with the Leoite's cleverness and power for the swift, competent touch. Make certain you have details correct.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23) — Your intellectual powers are favorably stimulated. The mails could bring good news, and some unusual surprises. LIBRA (September 24 to October 23) — Mathematical problems, designing, entertaining, engineering, public relations call for more than usual perfection, dispassionate calculating. Don't gamble unwisely SCORPIO (October 24to November 22) — You may not make all things work out as you would like. So line up the essentials and whatever "extras" won't crowd, and do your utmost to give them more attention.

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21) -Paint this day's picture accurately - neither overemphasizing nor understating; go about chores dutifully. That, plus a ready smile, will be the winning recipe now.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20) - Draw plans for an addition to your schedule which you may wish to incorporate into your future program. Keep out discordant notes — it CAN be done.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19) — Measure, review, embark on and judge with concern the ingredients necessary to your future. With such care, your day will start the week off smartly.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20) — Do not leap from one project to another. There's too much at stake, and many small opportunities could be lost in the shuffle.

YOU BORN TODAY are highly versatile, mentally active and exceptionally creative in all that you undertake. You are reserved, dignified and unusually intuitive. In fact, this intuition often becomes accurate foresight and tells you when to take important steps and this, combined with your forthright manner and objective thinking, can lead to tremendous success and contentment. Fields in which you could achieve notably: The law, statesmanship, music, literature, education, the theater. No matter what career you choose, however, you always give an artistic touch to the commonplace.

How to Keep Well

SEASONAL COLDS

Colds and other respiratory infections are more common in winter except in regions with a warm climate the year 'round. In some tropical areas, colds are rife during the rainy season. Getting chilled from dampness or wet feet frequently is blamed, but this has nothing to do with seasonal variations

In the northern half of the United States, colds appear in the fall when people begin to close windows and turn on the heat. Moisture-starved indoor air is said to make the nasal membranes more susceptible to respiratory infections. In addition, children return to school where there is a greater chance of viruses spreading.

Studies have also shown that although viral respiratory infections spread more easily in winter, certain types are more frequent in one month than in another. Many of us are unaware of this because most colds produce the same symptoms even though different viral strains are implicated.

The contagious aspects of colds are best exemplified on small islands with a small population. The natives have colds after a ship arrives, but once the epidemic is over, no one develops the infection until the next ship docks. Between these arrivals, things that many people claim provoke colds, such as chilling and sleeping in a draft, never bring on the respiratory infection.

In general, colds are not serious even though they result in great economic losses. On the other hand, a simple respiratory infection may be the straw that breaks the camel's back when it develops in the elderly, or a person with heart trouble, chronic bronchitis or emphysema. Never neglect a cold because if bacteria take over, the culprits may aggravate a chronic bronchitis or cause pneumonia or an ear infection

The OEP Philadelphia office, the local enforcer and arbiter of President Nixon's 90-day freeze on wages, rents and prices. turned down the state agency's plea to boost rates to meet rising purchase costs. The liquor control board was seeking an exemption from the presidential anti-inflationary strictures.

There was no immediate comment from the board, which is currently in negotiation with 3.000 state store clerks who have threatened to strike in early November

The OEP also ruled against exemption requests filed by two Philadelphia labor organizations — the Association of Catholic Teachers and Local 1841, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

The parochial school teachers group was asking for an exemption to permit diocesan payment of new salaries for lay teachers which were supposed to be effective last month. The association said the freeze imposes a hardship on these teachers, the lowest-paid in the parochial system.

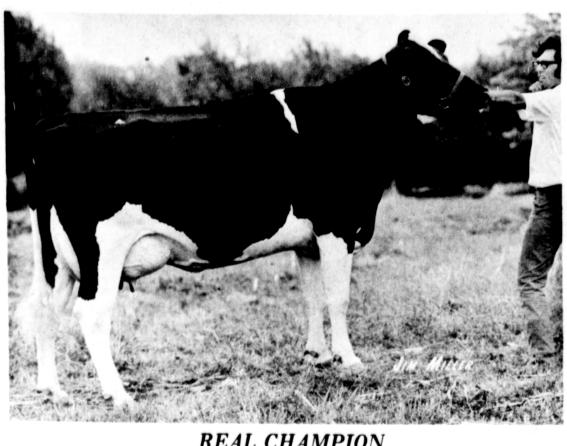

The electrical workers union asked the OEP to allow wage progression increases for employes of light fixture component manufacturers. The union had contended that unskilled workers hired under a wage progression schedule — which calls for minimal cost-of-living increases at three month intervals—should be compensated in this way for their increased skill and knowledge.

Bradford Airport To Host Aviation Day October 10th

Plans were finalized Friday at Bradford Regional Airport for Aviation Day to be held there Sunday, Oct. 10.

Prime attraction for visitors the four counties primarily served by the facility-Warren, McKean, Cameron and Elk, will be an Allegheny Airline 50-passenger Convair 580 airliner that will provide 20-minute rides over the Kinzua Dam area.

Flights will begin at 10 a.m. and will take off every hour and on the half hour until 12:30 p.m. when the crew will have its lunch break. There are 16 flights scheduled for the day, ending at about 6 or 7 p.m. Rates will be $5 for adults and $3 for youngsters up to and including 16-years of age. If you are planning a vacation with a kindred soul in this, the most vibrant, most riotously colorful month of the entire year, how about a camping trip in a private forest owned by one of the leading forest products companies and available to picnickers and campers for free or for an insignificant fee?

Or how about a salmonfishing trip along one of the hundreds of salmon-spawning streams flowing through these company forests and also open to you without charge or for next to nothing?

Or a hunting trip in these forestlands for game animals in season in accordance with the laws of the states involved?

Robertson rocketed three home runs and Pittsburgh clawed six San Francisco pitchers for 15 hits Sunday, ripping the Giants 9-4 and squaring the National League championship playoff series at one game apiece. The third game of the playoff is scheduled for Tuesday in Pittsburgh.

Robertson, who also doubled. drove in five runs as Pirate power asserted itself against the second line Giant pitchers.

The red-haired first baseman was ending a month-long dry spell. He slugged 26 homers during the regular season, but had not connected since August

The Giants, riding an emotional high after Saturday's opening game victory, nicked Pirate starter Dock Ellis for a run in the first on Willie Mays' RBI double. But Ellis escaped further damage, pitching his way out of a bases-loaded, oneout jam.

In the second, Pittsburgh tied it on Robertson's double and a single by Manny Sanguillen, but hits by Chris Speier and Ken Henderson restored the Giants' edge in the bottom half of the inning.

It stayed 2-1 until the fourth when Robertson, leading off, lofted a long fly to right field. Dave Kingman, playing in place of injured Bobby Bonds, reached over the eight foot-high fence but the ball glanced out of his glove for a home run, tying the score

Then the Pirates took the lead when Manny Sanguillen singled, stole second and rode home on Jackie Hernandez'hit.

Pittsburgh added another run in the fifth when Gene Clines. who had only one home run during the regular season. socked a shot over the left field wall to make it 4-2.

Ellis had settled down after his sha control ning. Alan G with a Speier giving base and none out and the Giants sent up Frank Duffy, hoping to sacrifice the runners along. But Duffy failed, bunting foul on the third strike. Then Ken Henderson walked.

Ron Bryant, a left-hander, came on and struck out Willie Stargell, who went hitless for the second straight day. But Robertson followed with a tremendous shot over the left field wall, driving three more runs home. Left-fielder Henderson never moved on this one.

Miller was still working in the bottom of the ninth when Fuentes doubled and rode home on a long homer by Mays for the Giants' final two runs. But the extra-base blows came three innings too late to help; by then, Robertson's second and third homers of the day had settled

The fourth-quarter was a debacle for the home team. A field goal try which would have never made it through the uprights, deflected off an Ike defender, and followed a course between the poles. consecutive playoff victories in a string that now stretches over three seasons. But until the seventh inning here it looked like Blue might be the first one to handcuff the defending world champions.

The hit that got the job done for the Orioles was a two-run double by Paul Blair that capped the seventh inning rally and snapped a 3-3 tie.

Blue, the moody, silent lefthander whose confidence had been questioned prior to the opener, breezed into the seventh inning with a three-hitter and a 3-1 lead, raising the specter of the Orioles' first defeat in playoff history.

But the world champions, winners of all six of their previous playoff games over two seasons, struck decisively in their half of the seventh and took a 1-0 lead in the best-of five series to determine the American League representatives in the World Series. Frank Robinson, who had struck out twice previously, opened the Baltimore seventh with a walk, and one out later Brooks Robinson singled him to second. But Blue bore down and got Andy Etchebarren for the second out on a fly to right that enabled Frank Robinson to move to third.

Mark Belanger, the Orioles' shortstop, then singled to center, scoring Frank Robinson, and Baltimore Manager Earl Weaver went to his bench, sending up reserve outfielder Curt Motton to pinch hit for starter Dave McNally.

Motton, a 189 hitter during the season, lashed a liner to the left field corner that drove in Brooks Robinson with the tying run. Jim Palmer went in to run for Motton, and scored behind Belanger when Blair stroke a liner down the third base line for two runs and a 5-3 lead that put it out of the A's reach.

Blue, a 24-game winner with just seven of those victories after the All-Star Game, finished the inning but was subjected to derision in absentia when Roland Fingers went to the mound for the A's in the eighth.

As Fingers walked slowly to the mound, the crowd of 42,-621-some 10,000 under capacity-howled "We want Blue, we want Blue." But there was no more Blue to be had. The Orioles had taken him as they extended a season-ending winning streak to 12. The A's, who appeared to have game No. 1 tucked away behind Blue, now will send Jim "Catfish" Hunter against Baltimore's Mike Cuellar in the second game of the playoffs here Monday before the scene switches to Oakland for the resumption of the series Tuesday.

Wozneak Superb Again In 1971 P-P-K Contest

Joe Wozneak returned to the Tom Stanton, 145. Age 10: 1. annual Ford Punt, Pass and Kick competition at Beaty Field Saturday morning a year older, stronger and more experienced from his travels last year that sent him to San Diego in search of the national title.

What did Joe do this time? Well, what he didn't do would be easier to tell because the 12year-old youngster was something to behold. Outdistancing the second closest man in punting by 26 points, forty in passing and 61 in kicking, Wozneak aggregated 341 points, best on the field.

Other winners in the eight through 13-year-old brackets were Jeffrey Poling (8), 130 points; Andy Work (9), 153 points; Reese Campbell Jr., (10), 190 points; Andy Frost (11), 197 points; Larry Himes and Joe Saber (13), 243 points.

BE THERE TUESDAY

The Brokenstraw Sportsman's Forums, scheduled to get off the ground for their second year run, Tuesday evening at 7:30 p.m., will be facing their crucial test as to whether or not they are the type of thing sportsmen really want and will support. Last year, according to those who attended the sessions, they were a great success. But, unless I miss my guess, it will be the 1971-72 season that will call for them to prove their metal.

Yet there's little reason to think that the sportsmen won't respond and provide good turnouts if the programs continue at the high level attained last year when leading game and fish specialists were presented. And it's not likely the average Joe Sportsman will ever have a better chance to talk face to face with such notables as Bob Bielo (last year) and Glenn Bowers (Tuesday's meeting) to air their views and ask for information.

In fact, with Bowers on Tuesday night's program the Brokenstraw clubhouse should be packed to the rafters. As executive director of the Pennsylvania Game Commission, Bowers is a busy man who is forced to limit his personal appearances and the fact that he has accepted the Brokenstraw invitation indicates the value his agency places on having close contact with the rank and file outdoors people.

The same can be said for Shyrl Hood, chief of warm-water fisheries, Pennsylvania Fish Commission, who will appear on the same program with Bowers.

Personally, I am very enthused over what I've seen of the Brokenstraw meetings. They have presented outstanding personalities in the fish and games fields, been well conducted, and highly informative. And what I like best about them is that they are open to any sportsman who cares to walk through the doorno formal organization, no bylaws, no membership, and no business meetings. Strictly confined to the subjects the sportsman himself wants to talk about

Furthermore, the Brokenstraw "idea" is spreading. A number of sportsman's organizations and outdoor writers have asked me for details that would enable them to get the same thing started in their communities. They recognize the Brokenstraw forums as the "straight from the shoulder" sort of thing that has been needed for a long time now to promote understanding between the sportsman and fish and game officials.

For this reason, I urge every sportsman who can possibly make it to be at the Brokenstraw clubhouse Tuesday evening. To come there to present their own ideas, and listen with an open mind to the suggestions of others. Their support is needed if these meetings are to continue to be meaningful and to be effective in promoting the sportsman's interests.

The clubhouse is located on Mead Run Road just west of

Chokeups Pay Off For Baltimore

Motton and Paul Blair choked in winning pitcher when the Orithe clutch Sunday-and it paid oles scored four runs in the off for a 5-3 Baltimore victory over Oakland in the opening game of the American League playoffs.

Motton, a free swinging pinch hitter, tied the score 3-3 with a two-out single in the seventh inning, then Blair rapped a tworun double to give the Orioles their seventh straight playoff

"I choked up, and that's not normal for me," Motton said in explaining his tactic against Oakland's Vida Blue.

"After he got me out the first three times," Blair said, "I decided the only thing to do was choke up on the bat, take a nice quick, short stroke-and hope the ball falls where no one is standing.

A two-out bunt by Blair in the 12th inning won the first 1969 playoff game against Minnesota. The Baltimore center fielder said he was thinking of strategy Sunday with runners on second and third.

"I told Coach Billy Hunter to be alert for a bunt," Blair said, "but third baseman Sal Bando was playing in."

Blair said he was looking for a fast ball on a 1-2 pitch, because Blue "throws too hard to look for anything else." After fouling off several pitches, Blair hit a belt-high fast ball down the left field line.

"That was the first hit I ever got off Blue," said Blair, who was 0-for-11 until he got the double. "I was lucky to tick off a couple of fouls first, and one of them Duncan (catcher Dave Duncan) just couldn't hold."

BALTIMORE (AP) — Curt Dave McNally became the seventh. McNally, a 20-game winner four years in a row, allowed five hits-four of them for extra bases-and all three Oakland runs in the first four innings.

A suicide squeeze which backfired with Blue at the plate prevented a possible third run scoring in the second inning.

ranked Crimson Tide scored Third baseman Brooks without much trouble and Robinson yelled when he saw amassed 531 yards rushing in Dave Duncan break for the plate, and McNally responded by throwing the pitch outside for catcher Andy Etchebarren.

"Andy told me if I heard someone yell or saw him move to the outside, to make the pitch outside." McNally said. "When I heard the yell, that's what I and untied did. Otherwise, I had all intentions of making the pitch in the strike zone.

In the fourth quarter, he returned a punt for four yards, sustaining an injury tentatively diagnosed as a pinched nerve, which is not expected to keep him out of

Then a naked screen pass to Stearns clicked and the speedster put a move on Luvison, zipped around him, and went 35 yards for the tying TD. Youngsville refused to yield a hole over right guard, and the half ended at 6-6.

Nobody scored in the third quarter, but Youngsville dominated the period, running 18 plays to Seagertown's eight, getting hurt once on an illegal procedure penalty at Saegertown's 23 and again when Saegertown's defense stiffened at its 20.

With 5:52 to play in the game, Price fielded a Baker punt on his 34, cut toward his own bench, and raced Youngsville's 15 before being pushed out of bounds. Tom Bahurinski, hit at the line, got away for ten yards, and two plays later Price bolted toward the goal line. He fumbled, but officials said it occurred after the ball had broken the end zone plane. Brasington batted Trace's PAT pass attempt out of the end zone, and Youngsville tried to play catchup ball.

Luvison returned the kickoff 21 yards, Baker hit Byler on a jump pass for 14 yards, and the Eagles had a first down on Saegertown's 22 with less than a minute remaining. Art Ward bulled for four tough yards around left end, was stacked up for no gain on a repeat try, and Baker tried twice for Freeborough on the left side. One low throw hit his hand and bounced away, and Saegertown deflected the fourth-down toss into the arms of Stearns on the nine, running out the clock to protect the win.

First-time hunters must complete a three-session hunter safety course to be eligible for a hunting license, and the last such course to be offered this season will begin Tuesday at the Warren YMCA. No exceptions to the rule are permitted, and interested persons should sign up at the YMCA or attend the first course, beginning at 7 p.m. The course, in twohour sessions, will be held Tuesday, Thursday and next Tuesday, Oct. 12.

from Frostburg, Md., doubled and scored in the second inning. In the fourth he drove a ball which barely cleared the right field fence at the foul pole.

That hit off Giants' starter John Cumberland wasn't an impressive blow, but it did tie the score at 2-2. His second and third homers, off relivers Ron Bryant and Steve Hamilton in the seventh and ninth, were long shots over the left field fence, the first one driving in two runners ahead of him.

Robertson had hit 26 home runs during the regular season but none during September when he said he was hampered by sore knees. He missed the entire 1968 season when he had to have an operation on a right kidney which had not been operating properly since birth.

Teachers Should Paddle Bad Kids, Temple Professor Says

You wouldn't believe what's

Paddle bad kids in school. A Temple University professor says teachers can and should. but not enough do.

Fewer and fewer teachers are using corporal punishment," reports Dr. Herbert C. Hudgins Jr. of Bryn Mawr, "yet the courts uphold their right to administer it as long as the discipline is reasonable in the light of the age, sex and size of the student.

No one wants a big man of a teacher, or even a little lady, to draw blood yet a firm swat now and then usually should keep a classroom cool and calm. It's the kind of punishment recommended, incidentally, by the Rev. Henry Nichols. president of Philadelphia's school board

Dr. Hudgins teaches a course in school law for superintendents, principals and teachers. He covers the gamut of pupil life styles: long hair. dress, school paper censorship. locker searches, and whether or not to spare the rod.

Frankly, he doesn't recommend in discriminate paddling. and would restrict it to toughest cases of disobedience.

"If used sparingly and as a last resort corporal punishment should per permitted." Hudgins says. "It should not be allowed if the parents object, but if the child then persists in his disruptive behavior he should be released from school into the custody of his parents until he agrees to conform.

It's about time all classrooms become havens for study instead of hangouts for abusive kids whose Dads and Moms pass off discipline on a teacher.

FAST WORKER: School board members in Lower Merion, Montgomery County. were embroiled recently for some time on a hot issue and one growled, "It took the Lord only six days to create heaven and earth, and look how long we've been fighting Replied Nelson Ray to his colleague: "The Lord had an

THOSE PEACE ALL PROTESTS and draft board raids didn't turn the Albright brothers around. They're in the Army now—all three of them.

Joseph, 22, Roy, 19, and Andrew, 18, of Oxford, Chester County, enlisted together to learn a trade they can put to use as civilians. Joe is going to be a medic. Roy an automotive mechnaic and Andy plans to concentrate on administration.

SOME PETS ARE TABOO: In Marple Township, outside Philadelphia, you can't keep sharks or covotes, elephants, crocodiles or poisonous animals. Even piranha. A new pet law regulates what can be kept in a house and how, like cats and dogs, lizards and white mice, goldfish and frogs.

Banned animals, fish, birds and snakes over four feet can be kept only by veterinarians and others who are specially trained, and who get a special license.

This regulation bothers Frances Velay of the Philadelphia Herpetological Society, which has to do with reptiles. She says she's shocked a community could pass such a law "in a free country

Well, now, would you like to live next door to a guy or gal who owns a couple of rattlesnakes, or maybe has a caged-up lion or tiger. And how about a wolf in the fenced-in FRAT SWAN SONG: The college fraternity used to be big stuff on campus. You weren't if you didn't wear a Greek pin.

But these social hangouts are withering away now that dorms are mixed up with guys and gals, and open to visitors all day and all night

Latest evidence of the anti Greek trend is the demise of Zeta Beta Tau, once the strongest frat at Franklin & Marshall College in Lancaster It just sold its house for $47,000 and it will be converted into a hospital dorm

In 1968 ZBT had 125 members at F&M. Last year only 20 lived in the house and the chapter roll

James Garfield, a former chapter secretary, says the end came because co-education which arrived at F&M in '69 made campus activities much more attractive than hap penings in a frat house

'Since the girls have come freshmen have become less and less interested in the fraternity as a social outlet." Garfield "ZBT had but three parties last year, and this was not sufficient enough for our fraternity to compete with the others for the freshmen.

Additionally, most of the brothers last year were pinned. When a brother spends his weekend with a girl, he tends to be less active in rushing and

So-what else is new

Frank Brookhouser of the Philadelphia Bulletin reports this happening: "Angelo Romano, who lives on Jefferson Drive in Jefferson Hills, Bucks County, is negotiating for a lot in Wildwood Crest, N.J., on Jefferson Ave. His wife, Betty, was a recent patient at Jef ferson Hospital. His business is in Norristown—the Jefferson House Restaurant.

Kentucky Man Tells How He Helps Shrink Painful Swelling Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues

... caused by inflammation and infection.

Adolphus, Ky.—Mr. Arlis Har-mon of Adolphus reports: "I tried various remedies. Then a friend suggested Preparation H. The very first applications showed marked improvement. (Note: Doctors' tests have proved Preparation H* actually helps shrink swelling of hemorrhoidal tissues caused by inflammation. It's so effective that in many cases the first applications give prompt, temporary relief from pain and itching in such tissues. There's no other formula like doctor-tested Preparation H. Ointment or suppositories.)

Leading Dignitaries To Attend KDVB Meet

Numerous state, regional and the Don Neal Award for local leaders will attend the fourth annual dinner of the Kinzua Dam Vacation Bureau on October 6 when Walter G. Arader, Pennsylvania Secretary of Commerce, will be the featured speaker.

dignitaries include, Glenn Bower, executive director of the Pennsylvania Game Commission; State Senator Richard Frame; State Assemblymen Allen and Westerberg; Edgar Rits, executive director of the North Central Pennsylvania Economic Development District; Ned Collander, executive director, Northwest Planning and Development Commission.

The dinner will also be the occasion for the presentation of

"Outstanding Service to Kinzua Country.'

Begun in 1968 with Don Neal as the first recipient, the award was presented to Robert Holmes in 1969 and the Some of the visiting Marienville Area Civic Association in 1970. The outstanding service to Kinzua Country can be in one or a combination of services in (1) conservation, (2) promotion, (3) development of outdoor recreation, or (4) a special singular deed.

Reservations for the dinner may be made by calling the KDVB office at 726-0292. The dinner at 7:30 p.m. will be preceded by a reception at 6:30

Inhalators In Police Cars Are Life Savers

Bernard Winegardner said Friday that the three inhalators purchased recently to be used in the borough patrol cars have already paid for themselves. He said one was used last week when patrolmen in a cruiser on the east side of the borough heard on their radio that a man needed emergency treatment at Segel's Junk Yard on S. South st.

Since they were only a few hundred yards from the Segel yard it was only a matter of seconds before they arrived. The new inhalator machine was used, and according to Winegardner, "we believe we saved the man's life."

"If we never save another life with those things they'll have paid for themselves," the chief

Winegardner explained that because two cars are crusing the borough at all times it will often happen that a police car can be at the scene faster than an emergency vehicle can be dispatched.

Most Of Local State Highways In Townships

HARRISBURG - Warren County's 22 second class townships by far and wide have the greatest share of state highways to be found in the county

a whopping 509.66 of the county's 531.85 miles, according to the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation in a tabulation just completed as of July 1, the start of the current fiscal vear

In addition to the 509.66 miles of state highway in the county's second class townships, 22.19 will be found in Warren County's six boroughs.

Interestingly perhaps, of this overall county mileage, 86.03 miles will be found in federal aid primary-rural roads (83.67 miles in the county's townships, 2.36 in the boroughs), while the federal aid primary-urban mileage totals 4.47 (all of which are found in the boroughs).

Insofar as the secondary road system in the county is concerned, all of the 138.43 miles are found on the federal aidrural front (134.24 miles in the townships, and 4.19 miles in the boroughs)

As for the strictly statesubsidized (non-federal aid) roads in the county, this mileage totals 302.92, with 291.75 in the townships, and 11.17 miles in the boroughs.

RULES OUT NUDITY PORT MORESBY, New Guinea (AP) — President Suharto of Indonesia has ordered 500,000 naked tribal people to wear clothes by the end of 1972. The order was broadcast by the government's radio station in Djajapura, capital of West Irian where many tribes still live primitively in mountainous jungle country.

"Sometimes we may only be a matter of feet from a person that needs the use of our inhalators," he said. "Those minutes and seconds saved may mean lives.' The inhalators were part of a donation made recently by the Betts Foundation to the Borough Police Department.

On Friday, September 24 all members of the department were instructed in the use of the inhalators by Dr. Frank H. Butt

Blue Lights For Firemen

Now Legal

Members of volunteer fire and hose companies are now authorized to use a flashing or revolving blue light with not more than two lights on a vehicle when answering fire or emergency calls. Use of the light by firemen in these categories heretofore restricted to members of fire departments is permitted under Act 79 of the 1971 session of the General Assembly. A statement listing the names of those qualified to use the light signed by the chief of a fire company, fire department, or hose company must be filed with the nearest Pennsylvania State Police substation.

The law also extends such use of flashing blue lights on streets, as well as on highways. In announcing the new regulation, Pennsylvania Department of Transportation officials stressed that flashing of such lights during the operation of a vehicle at any time except in answer to a fire or emergency call is prohibited.

The law also provides that blue lights shall be removed from a vehicle within ten days of receipt by the owner of a notice to remove the light from the chief of a fire company, fire department or hose company upon the termination of such person's employment as a volunteer fireman, or when the owner ceases to use the vehicle in connection with duties as a
